Subject: Microsoft Settlement

To whom it may concern:

I'm of the opinion that the proposed settlement with Microsoft is in no way a reasonable end to the case. It provides too many concessions to the guilty party and not a single bit of restitution to the victims of their actions.

I was under the assumption that when a party is found guilty, they were actually punished, and didn't get to pick their own punishment.

It allows them to continue their present course of action, it's really only a "slap on the wrist".

This settlement should not be adopted without significant revision.
